SPECIAL SERVICE OF GAZETTE WILL COVER BIG SERIES

Call Editorial Rooms After Four O'clock for Results.—Football Scores Saturday.

Through special arrangements made this afternoon with the Associated Press association, the Gazette has provided for an extra news service to cover the world's series baseball games for its readers and for its downtown customers who have received its afternoon sports report daily throughout the baseball season.

The afternoon issue will cover the game fully and will be for sale at newsstands and on the streets at 4 p. m. The Gazette's reports will be readable fully four hours before the arrival of any outside papers which carries the play in detail. Chicago and Milwaukee papers arriving here up to eight o'clock at night will not have a full story of the first championship battle.

Individuals desiring information or scores of the games can secure it by calling the Editorial Room. Special telephone operators are to be pressed into service during the series. It is requested, however, that no telephone calls be made before 4 p. m. due to the rush of work at the eleventh hour consequent to getting the paper to press. As a warning and to save the individuals time, it must be said that no scores, except those to its regular baseball report customers, will be given from the Gazette office previous to the hour mentioned. The same applies to those places in the vicinity of Janesville who have been furnished with baseball results over long distance telephone.

Remember, don't call before four. Miller Bros., Delaney & Langdon, Maurice Dalton and "Bob" Hockett have been receiving the scores throughout the summer and will also do so for the series. Other cigar stores or business houses desiring to secure the results can make arrangements for such at the Gazette office.

In addition to the baseball results, the Gazette has also arranged for a special service on football games. This will continue through Thanksgiving Day, the scores being received over the wire from the Milwaukee bureau of the Associated Press and bulletined and distributed to baseball report customers at six o'clock each Saturday evening.

Eastern games are generally finished in time to permit publication of the results in the four o'clock edition, but games in the central west come later. Football scores will be received on a special call from Milwaukee at 5:30 o'clock each Saturday afternoon and will be available to those interested after this period.

QUESTIONS ABOUT FOOD

Answered by ALFRED W. McCANN.

Q.—Do you consider tea and coffee harmful?

A.—Tea and coffee both contain a stimulating principle known as caffeine. When this substance is obtained from the coffee bean and tea leaf in the pure state and administered in considerable doses to experimental animals or human beings, results are obtainable which indisputably place caffeine in the poisonous class.

For a long time investigators interested in the toxicity of this substance have been engaged in the pursuit of feeding it to all sorts of animals as well as men. Much is credited with being the first man to perform a controlled experiment with caffeine, employing the use of animals as his subjects. This investigator fed half of a gram of caffeine to a rabbit in the morning. He noticed in a short time that the rabbit lost its appetite and showed a backward curvature of the spine. It gave premature birth, and died.

A few years after Mulder made known the results of his experiments, published the results of investigations performed on several men. He gave to them caffeine to the extent of from two to five grams. The symptoms were severe headache, irregularity of the pulse, as well as tachycardia, and sensation of flashes of light occurring without external cause. Some of the men complained of a buzzing in the ear, while others became delirious.

Eleven years later this same experimenter found that giving four grams of caffeine to an adult (male) with a normal diet resulted in increased heart action. When he doubled the dose the beating of the pulse became more pronounced and heart action became more pronounced and convulsions, confused thinking, and excited imagination followed. Fireflies by means of a hypodermic syringe injected beneath the skin of a cat 18 grams of caffeine per kilogram weight of the animal. The cat began to tremble and a few minutes later it died. The symptoms were found on the following day.

A rabbit similarly treated, but with .38 gram per kilogram, died soon after the injection, even before symptoms had an opportunity to appear. When he gave minute doses of caffeine such as .1 of a gram to a rabbit weighing 3,607 grams he did not succeed in inducing symptoms. Doses under 1 gram per kilogram weight failed to give rise to observable effects.

In 1878 Bonz, conducting his researches on both men and dogs, claimed as a result of his inquiry that 2 gram of caffeine injected beneath the skin was sufficient to cause the death of a dog and concluded that an injection of from .5 to 1.5 gram was poisonous to men.

It would appear from the results obtained by these investigators that caffeine is an exceedingly poisonous substance. It is unquestionably toxic. But it is reasonably certain that the small amount in coffee—namely, 2 per cent. of the most—can be included with impunity. A human being would have to consume as much as four pounds of coffee at one time to obtain enough caffeine to produce symptoms of poisoning.

People who cannot drink two cups of coffee without suffering unpleasant results should be content with one cup or pay the price.

Children should not drink coffee under any circumstances.

BOIL DISHES FOR SANITATION
NEW YORK HEALTH DEPT.

New York, Oct. 5.—To insure perfect sanitation of the dishes from which food is eaten, they should be washed and rinsed in boiling water according to a health bulletin just issued by Dr. Samuel G. Dixon.

"There are numerous communicable diseases caused by germs which are present in the mouths of those afflicted," says Dr. Dixon. "Persons in various stages of tuberculosis, diphtheria, blood poisoning, etc., may transfer disease germs from their mouths to eating utensils. Unless these are sterilized by use of boiling water, they are a source of danger to whoever may use them subsequently. Special care should be exercised in public eating houses."

"DRESS UP WEEK"

"Dress Up" Week was not originated by a community that its members might gloss over their imperfection and appear to be what they are not—it was not intended to make a company of hypocrites. Many a man is hiding genuine mahogany behind a cheap veneer—basically the average individual possesses real worth—most men are not accurate in the appraisal of self—they need the advice of men of experience and judgment.

"Dress Up Week" is intended to inculcate in all self respecting individuals an appreciation of the worth of personal appearance and its value to the community as an index of personal character. One's clothes reveals the value one sets and their own worthiness. "DRESS Up."

Men's and Young
Men's Suits
$15,$18,$20,$25

We offer these suits as being eminently fitted for anyone to choose for "Dress Up" Week. They are the products of the best makers in the land, they look well, wear well and are the biggest values at the price.

WEATHER FORECAST.

LAW OF ANARCHY.

At the Joplin convention of the Missouri State Federation of Labor the president of the organization, reviewing the railroad situation and the eight-hour law, is reported to have said:

"It is claimed by opponents that this eight-hour law will be declared unconstitutional by the courts, and the United States supreme court would undo the work of congress and the chief executive. We do not know what the courts may or may not do. But it may not be out of place to give a police warning to the rabid gentlemen occupying the sacred benches of the highest courts of the country that their reputation is not the very best of it."

"If they should attempt to do the bidding of the combined railroad corporations and railroad stock speculators of the country, and kill one of the most important pieces of social legislation enacted by congress they will be playing with fire that may not only burn their fingers, but may cause a social conflagration, arouse the American working class against the arbitrary rule of the courts, and shake the very foundations of these institutions."

"Sometimes a man has good reason to pray to be delivered from his friends. Organized labor may well pray to be delivered from such leadership as this. We in this country, and ourselves upon the fact that this is a government of laws and not of men. We even feel superior to the people of Europe. We look upon its war and bloodshed as brought about by a lower ideal of civilization than ours. We are in the forefront of those who would settle disputes by arbitration."

"Our leagues of peace would substitute the eternal principles of justice for those of force now prevailing over there. The forum, and not the battlefield, is the place for adjusting differences, we say. There are only two ways of settlement. One is by law and judicial procedure; the other by burning villages and starving the billions with death. Europe has taken the latter course. 'Poor Europe!' we say."

"And yet the barbarous ideal of force that has plunged Europe into war is the same that has been proclaimed at Joplin. One is international, and the other national, anarchy. A military class of leadership held law and courts in contempt. They played with fire. Those whom they led are suffering for it. The other blind leaders are making a similar mistake on a smaller scale. It would not be fair to the American workingmen to say that they will subscribe to such sentiments when they realize their full import. The issue is, Shall we have law or anarchy?"

The Wall Street Journal thus comments on the paragraphs quoted. It is to be hoped that the sentiment expressed by the labor leader was never uttered. It was bad enough to defy congress, but to defy the highest court in the land is infinitely worse. Respect for law is the safeguard of the nation, and the respect of the would-be tyrant, which is promptly broken by the wholesome respect because it is right."

The victory which organized labor won at Washington, at the point of the gun, was a victory without honor, and it may prove a detriment to the cause. The American people are a fair-minded people. They believe in a square deal, and are in sympathy with lawlessness, however it may be disguised. Some things in this world are legally right which are morally wrong and the right of might is usually short-lived."

ENGLAND'S WOMAN FARMER.
Americans must not judge English woman farmer by the pictures of society women dressed in sporty mannish suits apparently driving a plow or tilling hay," said an American business man who has just returned from a trip through rural England.

"Practically all of England's farms are denuded of their male workers except in cases of absolute necessity. The military tribunals in each town make the decision in each case. For instance, if a family includes two strong daughters and a couple of sons, a period of time is given the brothers to teach the daughters their farm duties, and then they must join the colors on a date designated by the tribunal and the girls help the old folks."

The fair women of England have responded nobly to the call and throughout the countryside one can see the girls, and for that matter the older women, too, working from morning to night on the heaviest kind of farm work. Returns to local village boards indicate that the farms are being kept in excellent shape, and the dairy and other farm produce is coming to market in as large quantities as formerly. The chief complaint is the village publican who finds that his receipts from the sale of ale have fallen off astonishingly and on market days the draper is now getting the business."

The war has dispelled many illusions and among them the much discussed "sphere of woman." It has destroyed caste, to large extent, and placed humanity on a common level. The best women of these war-cursed lands are none too good to work, and they have come to the rescue in every department of toil.

War is a great leveler. It has made of one kind the women in the nations of the old world, for every last one of them has been called upon to sacrifice. Every home is a house of mourning, and while they work in the field or factory, many of them labor with tear-dimmed eyes, mourning for the loved ones who will never return. Heroic women. God bless and comfort them.

THE TIME TO THINK.
"A man who built a bungalow with his own hands acknowledged that he hadn't the skill to hone a razor."
"This was nothing to his discredit. We are not all endowed with the same gift. Some have the gift of tongues, some of scientific knowledge, some of finance, medicine, law, and some of theology."

"What this world needs is the right man in the right place. This nation needs most of all a statesman for a statesman's job."

"What would be thought of a clerk, machinist or barber who should undertake to solve the problems of astronomy, or to make the rounds of the physician in administering to the sick?"

"Yet under our form of government we can and do elect to our law-making bodies men with no legislative experience, no conception of the limitations of the law and no business knowledge—men with smooth tongues and persuasive ways, persistent seekers for public place."

"As a result, we enact laws one year that must be repealed the next because they will not stand the tests of the courts. All the time and money spent in such legislation is worse than wasted and the patient taxpayers foot the bill."

"Still worse, we have laws so unfair, inequitable and destructive that they cripple business, handicap trade and restrict commerce, and once more the taxpayers foot the bill."

"Given our friendly relations with foreign nations are endangered by loose legislation. Thus we are becoming the laughing-stock of diplomatic circles."

"The craze for law-making that has encumbered the statute books with a mass of undesirable and unnecessary laws is the natural result of a system that tolerates mediocrity in high places."

"The oppressive and constantly increasing burden of taxation, national, state and municipal, has become a very serious matter. Who is to blame?"

"Let the thinking people think!"
A writer in "Les Temps" expresses this sound sentiment which is so true in existing conditions that it impresses every thoughtful mind. We elect men to serve us without regard to ability, from the lowest office in the land to the highest. As a result our public offices are crowded with incompetents and the people suffer from misrule."

Statistics show that 65,000 new laws state and national—were placed on our statute books last year. This is at least 80,000 too many. The average mind can only digest a limited amount of legal lore. We have too many law-makers and they are altogether too busy for the public good."

Every state in the union has a code of railroad laws which includes everything from transportation to taxation. These laws emanate in the brain of men who—in many instances—wouldn't be able to run a hand-car and keep it out of the ditch."

It will be a blessing to the railroads if the time ever comes when the federal government assumes control, so far as laws are concerned. The companies are engaged in interstate business. They know nothing about state lines and state rights and should not be annoyed by state regulation."

Their business is to serve the public and their system is so interwoven that mutual co-operation is necessary. Let the government levy the taxes and apportion the proceeds on a pro rata basis and there will be no cause for complaint."

Someone suggested, a time ago, that any state would be better served by a dozen good men well paid and devoting all of their time to the business, than by a small army of politicians whose principal qualification is ambition for office. This would mean state government by commission. Why not?"

The city of Dayton, Ohio, is in charge of one man, a superintendent hired for the job. A business proposition pure and simple, and handled the same as any other large corporation. The same principle applied to the state would give us less fool laws and more time to breathe without swearing."

"Patient waiting" and "peace at any price" may be a soothing lullaby, but there is always a hereafter. France has served notice that somebody will be held responsible for the six hundred million dollars invested in Mexico, and other nations with similar investments will be asking troublesome questions when the war is over."

If society demands an eight hour day, as President Wilson says, and the demand is recognized, the average housewife will commence to get up at eight o'clock in the morning and suspend operations at five in the afternoon. That ought to contribute to family felicity."

It is said that ex-President Taft has lost one hundred pounds since he resigned.

President Wilson is wise in declining to speak while enroute to Omaha. The ghost of some of his former utterances are troublesome specters which can be best explained by writing another note.

HY-Y CLUB STARTS SEASON'S ACTIVITIES

Popular Bible Study Club Holds Its
First Meeting at Y. M. C. A.
Last Night.

Twenty-five members of the Hy-Y club, which represents the groups of high school students who are enrolled in Bible study at the Y. M. C. A., assembled last evening for the first dinner and meeting of the year at the association building. In addition to the members there were a number of speakers and guests brought in by the boys. Talks were made by Rev.
Francis H. Brigham, Principal J. T.
Sheator of the high school and by Mr.
Bearnmore and Mr. Boyd of the Y. M.
C. A.

The following boys were elected to hold office during the coming year:
President, Maurice Russell; secretary,
Thomas O. Nuzum; treasurer, George Sprackling.

Three vice-presidents will also be elected, one to represent each of the three classes. These are to be chosen at the next meeting of the club, which is to be held on next Tuesday evening. There will be two classes devoted to Bible study and one for the training of leaders of groups. It is hoped that many of the young men who are now teaching Sunday school classes in the various churches will join this effort to find and develop new leaders.

The boys' work committee is doing its utmost to plan and carry on many activities that will tend to develop the highest character among boys of the association. This committee was represented at the meeting last night by A. S. Krotz, who has taken great interest in this work.

A resolution of greeting was ordered sent to H. J. Center, who was in charge of this work last year, and who is now in Y. M. C. A. work at Plainfield, New Jersey.

MISS EDITH BARLASS WEDS GEORGE HILL

A very pretty wedding was celebrated Wednesday evening at eight o'clock when Miss Edith Barlass of the town of Harmon, only daughter of Mrs. Hannah Barlass and George Hill of the town of La Prairie, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hill, were united in marriage in the presence of near relatives and friends at the bride's home. Rev. Horning of the Emerald Grove church officiated.

The bride was attired in white embroided net and carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses. Miss Catherine Jones, cousin of the bride, played the wedding march from Mendelssohn.
The bride and groom, unattended, took their places beneath an archway of autumn leaves and flowers. The Bar-lass home was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and flowers.

Following the wedding ceremony, a bountiful four-course dinner was served to the nuptial party. The bride is a popular young lady of that vicinity. She was a member of the Janesville high school and Sunday school.
The groom is a very popular young man and is also a member of the same church. They have the good wishes of their many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Hill will be at home after December 1st.

ILL AT CINCINNATI WITH TYPHOID FEVER

Miss Alta F. Field Is Taken to Hospital, Where She Is Suffering With Early Stages of Disease

Judge and Mrs. Charles L. Field have received word that their daughter, Miss Alta F. Field, is ill with typhoid fever at a hospital in Cincinnati.
The information is that her condition is not serious at present, although she is suffering with the early stages of the disease. Since her graduation from the Wisconsin state library school
Miss Field has been holding a position as librarian in one of the branch libraries of the Cincinnati public library system. Five persons at the rooming house where Miss Field is located have been taken with typhoid.
Judge and Mrs. Field will leave Saturday morning for Cincinnati. On account of Judge Field's absence, the unfinished business of the October term of the probate court will be continued until the special term.

"Only 'Gets-It' for Me After This!"

It "Gets" Every Corn Every Time. Painless. Nothing More Simple.

"Oh tell you what, I've just using toe-eating salvers for corns. I've just making a package out of my toes. With bandages and contraptions, just digging with knives and scissors. They are 'GETS-IT' every time. That's what they call it, the very first."

When You See These Pretty Girls in Your Druggists, Buy It a Good Time to End Your Corns.

That these two "GETS-IT" is because "GETS-IT" is so simple and easy to use—put it on in a few seconds—because there is no work or contraptions to do, no pain and no need to go to a doctor. It gets your corns off your mind. All the time it's working, and then, that little old corn goes right off, leaving the skin, corn-free, skin underneath, and your corn is gone! No wonder millions prefer "GETS-IT." Try it tonight!

"GETS-IT" is sold and recommended by druggists everywhere. See a bottle, or send a check of price by Dr. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Janesville and recommended as the best corn cure remedy by South Drug Co., East Cross Pharmacy, Meigs & Sons and Reliable Drug Co.

If Too Fat Get More Fresh Air

BE MODERATE IN YOUR DIET AND REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT. TAKE OIL OF KOREIN.

Lack of fresh air it is said weakens the oxygen carrying power of the blood, the liver becomes sluggish, fat accumulates and the action of many of the vital organs are hindered thereby. The heart action becomes weak, work is an effort and the beauty of the figure is destroyed.

Put out on a sunny life is unhealthy and if nature is not assisted in throwing it off a serious case of obesity may result.

When you feel that you are getting too stout, take the matter in hand at once. Don't wait until your figure has become a joke and your health ruined through carrying around a burden of unsightly and unhealthy fat.

Spend as much time as you possibly can in the open air; breathe deeply, and get from Smith Drug Co. or any druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weight yourself every few days and keep up the treatment until you are down to normal. Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, helps the digestion, and even a few days' treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight. Advertisement

"Not by any means except her consent."

"You'll make her marry me?"

"No. No," replied Longstreth, his voice still cold, low-pitched.

"All right. Then I'll make her."

Evidently Longstreth understood the man before him so well that he wasted no more words. Duane knew what Lawson never dreamed of, and that was that Longstreth had a gun somewhere within reach and meant to use it. Then heavy footsteps sounded outside tramping upon the porch. Duane believed those footsteps saved Lawson's life.

"There they are," said Lawson, and he opened the door.

Five masked men entered. They all wore coats hiding any weapons. A big man with burly shoulders shook hands with Longstreth, and the others stood back.

The atmosphere of the room had changed. Lawson might have been a nonentity for all he counted. Longstreth was another man—a stranger to Duane. If he had entertained a hope of freeing himself from this band of getting away to a safer country, he abandoned it at the very sight of these men. There was power here, and he was bound.

The big man spoke in low, hoarse whispers, and at this all the others gathered around him close to the table. There were evidently some signs of membership not plain to Duane. Then all the heads were bent over the table. Low voices spoke, queried, answered, argued. By straining his ears Duane caught a word here and there. They were planning, and they were brief. Duane gathered they were to have a rendezvous at or near Ord.

Then the big man, who evidently was the leader of the present convention, got up to depart. He went as swiftly as he had come, and was followed by his comrades. Longstreth prepared for a quiet smoke. Lawson seemed uncommunicative and unsociable. He smoked fiercely and drank continually. All at once he straightened up as if listening.

"What's that?" he called suddenly.

Duane's strained ears were pervaded by a slight rustling sound.

"Must be a rat," replied Longstreth. The rustle became a rattle.

"Sounds like a rattlesnake to me," said Lawson.

Longstreth got up from the table and peered round the room.

Just at that moment Duane felt an almost inappreciable movement of the adobe wall which supported him. He could scarcely credit his senses. But the rattle inside Longstreth's room was mingling with little dull thuds of falling dirt. The adobe wall, merely dried mud, was crumbling.

Duane distinctly felt a tremor pass through it. Then the blood gushed back to his heart.

"What in the hell!" exclaimed Longstreth.

"I smell dust," said Lawson, sharply.

That was a signal for Duane to drop down from his perch, yet despite his care he made a noise.

"Did you hear a step?" queried Longstreth.

No one answered. But a heavy piece of the adobe wall fell with a thud. Duane heard it crack, felt it stunke.

"There's somebody between the walls!" thundered Longstreth.

Then a section of the wall fell inward with a crash. Duane began to squeeze his body through the narrow passage toward the patio.

"Hear him!" yelled Lawson. "This side!"

"No, he's going that way," yelled Longstreth.

The tramp of heavy boots lent Duane the strength of desperation. He was not shirking a fight, but to be cornered like a trapped coyote was another matter. He almost tore his clothes off in that passage. The dust nearly stifled him. When he burst into the patio it was not an instant too soon. But one deep gasp of breath revived him and he was up, gun in hand, running for the outlet into the court. Thumping footsteps turned him back. While there was a chance to get away he did not want to fight. He thought he heard someone running into the patio from the other end. He stole along, and coming to a door, without any idea of where it might lead, he softly pushed it open a little way and slipped in.

CHAPTER XXI.

A low cry greeted Duane. The room was light. He saw Ray Longstreth sitting on her bed in her dressing-gown. With a warning gesture to her to be silent he turned to close the door. It was a heavy door without bolt or bar, and when Duane had shut it he felt safe only for the moment. Then he gazed around the room. There was one window with blind closely drawn. He listened and seemed to hear footsteps retreating, dying away.

Then Duane turned to Miss Longstreth. She had slipped off the bed, half to her knees, and was holding out trembling hands. She was as white as the pillow of her bed. She was terribly frightened. Again with warning hand commanding silence, Duane stepped softly forward, meaning to reassure her.

"Oh!" she whispered wildly; and Duane thought she was going to faint. When he got close and looked into her eyes he understood the strange, dark expression in them. She was terrified because she believed he meant to kill her, or do worse, probably worse. Duane realized he must have looked pretty hard and fierce bursting into her room with that big gun in hand.

The way she searched Duane's face with doubtful, fearful eyes hurt him.

"Listen. I didn't know this was your room. I came here to get away—to save my life. I was pursued. I was spying on your father and his men. They heard me, but did not see me. They don't know who was listening. They're after me now."

Her eyes changed from blank gulfs to dilating, shadowing, quickening windows of thought.

Then she stood up and faced Duane with the fire and intelligence of a woman in her eyes.

"Tell me now. You were spying on my father?"

Briefly Duane told her what had happened before he entered her room, not omitting a terse word as to the character of the men he had watched.

"My God! So it's that? I knew something was terribly wrong here—with him—with the place—the people. And right off I hated Floyd Lawson. Oh, it'll kill me if it—It's so much worse than I dreamed. What shall I do?"

The sound of soft steps somewhere near distracted Duane's attention, reminded him of her peril, and now, what counted more with him, made clear the probability of being discovered in her room.

"I'll have to get out of here," whispered Duane.

"Wait," she replied. "Didn't you say they were hunting for you?"

"They sure are," he returned, grimly.

"Oh, then you mustn't go. They might shoot you. Stay. If we hear them you can hide. I'll turn out the light. I'll meet them at the door. You can trust me. Wait till all is quiet down. If we have to wait till morning. Then you can slip out."

"I oughtn't to stay. I don't want to—I won't," Duane replied, perplexed and shaken.

"But you must. It's the only safe way. They won't come here."

"Suppose they should? It's an even chance Longstreth'll search every room and corner in this old house. If they found me here I couldn't start a fight. You might be hurt. Then—the fact of my being here—"

Duane did not finish what he meant, but instead made a step toward the door. White of face and dark of eye, she took hold of him to detain him. She was as strong and supple as a panther. But she need not have been either resolute or strong, for the clasp of her hand was enough to make Duane weak.

"Up yet, Ray?" came Longstreth's clear voice, too strained, too eager to be natural.

"No. I'm in bed reading. Good night," instantly replied Miss Longstreth, so calmly and naturally that Duane marveled at the difference between man and woman. Then she motioned for Duane to hide in the closet. He slipped in, but the door would not close altogether.

"Are you alone?" went on Longstreth's penetrating voice.

"Yes," she replied. "Ruth went to bed."

The door swung inward with a swift scrape and jar. Longstreth half entered, haggard, frowning-eyed. Behind him Duane saw Lawson, and indistinctly another man.

Longstreth barred Lawson from entering, which action showed control as well as distrust. He wanted to see into the room. When he had glanced around he went out and closed the door.

Then what seemed a long interval ensued. The house grew silent once more. Duane could not see Miss Longstreth, but he heard her quick breathing.

Presently he pushed open the closet door and stepped forth. Miss Longstreth had her head lowered upon her arms and appeared to be in distress. At his touch she raised a quivering face.

"I think I can go now—safely," he whispered.

"Go then, if you must, but you may stay till you're safe," she replied.

"I—I couldn't thank you enough. It's been hard on me—this finding out—and you his daughter. I feel strange. I don't understand myself well. But I want you to know—if I were not an outlaw—a ranger—I'd lay my life at your feet."

"Oh! You have seen so—so little of me," she faltered.

"All the same it's true. And that makes me feel more the trouble my coming caused you."

"You will not fight my father?"

"Not if I can help it. I'm trying to get out of the way."

"But you spied upon him."

"I am a ranger, Miss Longstreth," she cried. "That's so much more terrible than I'd suspected. It was tricky cattle deals I imagined he was engaged in. But only to-night I met strong suspicions aroused."

"How? Tell me."

"I overheard Floyd say that men were coming to-night to arrange a meeting for my father at a rendezvous near Ord. Father did not want to go. Floyd taunted him with a name."

"What name?" queried Duane.

"It was Cheseldine."

"Cheseldine? My God! Miss Longstreth, why did you tell me that?"

"What difference does that make?"

"Your father and Cheseldine are one and the same," whispered Duane, hoarsely.

"I gathered so much myself," she replied, miserably. "But Longstreth is clear, visibly, too strained, too eager to be natural."

Duane felt so stunned that he could not speak at once. It was the girl's part in this tragedy that weakened him. The instant she betrayed the secret Duane realized perfectly that he loved her. The emotion was like a great flood.

"Miss Longstreth, all this seems so unbelievable," he whispered. "Cheseldine is a rustler chief I've come out here to get. He's only a name. Your father is the real man. I've sworn to get him. I'm bound by more than law or oaths. I can't break what binds me. And I must disgrace you—wreck your life! Why, Miss Longstreth, I believe I—I love you. It's all come in a rush. I'd die for you if I could. How fatal—terrible—this is! How things work out!"

She slipped to her knees, with her hands on his.

"You won't kill him?" she implored.

"If you care for me—you won't kill him."

"No. That I promise you."

With a low moan she dropped her head upon the bed.

Duane opened the door and stealthily stole out through the corridor to the court. But long after he had tramped out into the open there was a lump in his throat and an ache in his breast.

Dinner Stories

During one of the Ohio floods an old man, who had lost nearly everything he possessed, was sitting on the roof of his house as it floated along when a boat approached.

"Hello, Henry!"

"Hello, Bill!"

"Are your chickens all washed away, Henry?"

"Yes; but I got some ducks, and they can swim."

"Apple trees gone?"

"Well they said the crop would be a failure anyhow."

"I see the flood's away above your windows."

"That's all right, Bill. Them winders needed washin' anyway."

"Two ladies were hurrying down the street in Worcester in the rain carry-

Relieves Serious Case of Chronic Constipation

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Corrects Condition That Seemed Hopeless.

After suffering from chronic constipation until she was so run down she was unable to do any kind of work, Miss H. A. Frees, 209 Adams St., Dayton, Ohio, obtained a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and used it with such gratifying results that she continued the treatment and has written to Dr. Caldwell that her condition is again normal, and that she wants to recommend Syrup Pepsin to everyone who suffers with constipation.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, gentle in its action and free from griping or other pain or discomfort. It contains no opiate or narcotic drug, and while acting readily on the most stubborn case of inactive bowels, is absolutely safe for the tiniest babe, so that it is the ideal family laxative and should be kept on hand in every household for use when needed.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin costs only fifty cents a bottle and is sold in drug stores everywhere. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure you get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 435 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

ing their umbrellas low for protection. In turning a corner sharply the point of one umbrella struck a passer-by in the forehead.

"Goodness!" exclaimed the man, "you near had one out in the present!"

"Mr. Sorrel proposed to me last night, mother."

"And you accepted him, I hope."

"No, mother. I could never love a man with red hair."

"But, my dear girl, you should consider the fact that he has very little of it."

"Johnny Jones," said the teacher severely, "is that chewing gum you have in your mouth?"

"Yes, ma'am," admitted Johnny. "Bring it to me this instant."

"If you'll wait till tomorrow, teacher, I'll bring you a piece that ain't chewed."

Shame in Willful Loss of Time. Some times are taken from us by force; some others are stolen from us; and others slip away. But the most disgraceful loss is that which arises from our own negligence.—Seneca.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette Oct. 6, 1876.—The rain storm last night was among the heaviest this season. The river maintains a good stage of water for this season of the year.

A large quantity of tobacco is being shipped from this city to the east. There was quite a sprinkling of republicans in the city today. They appear healthy, bright and happy over the glowing prospects of a republican turning this fall.

A. K. Norris, formerly of this city, but now an extensive dealer in Chicago, suffered a loss by fire on Wednesday morning to the amount of $5,000. His large frame building on West 22nd street, filled with choice lumber, was almost totally destroyed. The Recorder has been compelled to back water on that Walter Horn "personal" of last week, which the writer thereof (not the editor) supposed was very funny. It was intended as an insult and on that ground we refused to publish the same. Every gentleman, whatever may be his peculiarities, is entitled to fairness in a public journal.

R. C. Brant and sons of this city, have gone to New Mexico, where they will settle. They go under the auspices of the Stock and Agricultural association of Chicago, in company with several from Chicago, Iowa and Minnesota. The colony is on the Chama river in northern New Mexico. The climate there is healthy, and for stock raising and agricultural purposes, it has no superior on the continent. So say those who have been there.

About That Old Stove

Are you going to try and use that old stove another year? Why not let us take the old stove in trade toward a fine new Acorn Range? Don't you think that would be better than the old Stove?

You know what the shortcomings of your present stove are—you know what trouble you have had with it—all the time you have wasted—remember getting up some of those real cold mornings last winter and finding the fire completely out in the range? Wasn't very pleasant was it? Perhaps then you had wished for an Acorn with the deep firebox, guaranteed to keep fire overnight.

The Acorn stoves are very neat, easy to keep clean, well made and what is most important of all, are the very best bakers money can buy. There isn't a stove on the market today that will do better baking with as little fuel as the Acorn.
